

Mobile Processing for Electronic Discovery

For corporations and law firms that need electronic discovery processing anywhere in the world.

Raising the bar... at home and abroad.

Kiersted has mastered the process of delivering a solution across geographic boundaries. We understand international business complexities and the electronic discovery challenges faced by global organizations.

We recognize your deadlines and constraints – you want to avoid fines and sanctions, meet deadlines, comply with legal requirements, and mitigate risk. And we realize that U.S.-based law firms serving multinational organizations want the same quality available in America.

Just call us when you need it, and we will bring everything to you!

Equipped with proprietary software and the latest hardware, Kiersted's mobile processing team flew to Brussels and delivered successful results on a very tight deadline.

"As usual, everything came together – our team, technical capabilities, and e-Discovery expertise. Our client was completely satisfied."

*Andre Guilbeau,
Vice President, e-Discovery*

Global service.

Demand for portability is growing, prompted by confidentiality issues and global data privacy requirements. International firms face challenges posed by European Union privacy laws that prohibit the transportation of electronic data from Europe to the U.S. where e-Discovery expertise is more readily available. Kiersted's mobile processing capability and technology experts can perform e-Discovery wherever you need it, across the country or around the globe.

- ▶ High-powered processing right on your site.
- ▶ No additional investment in hardware or software on your end, regardless of project size.
- ▶ Totally scalable system that can process massive volumes – multiple terabytes of data.

Quality you can trust.

Here is what firms are saying about Kiersted:

"Kiersted has state-of-the-art technology."

"Their processes are solid, reliable and battle-proven."

"Their capacity and throughput is tremendous."

"The Kiersted team leaves nothing to chance."

"Service and experience are what Kiersted is known for."

Trust Kiersted's decade of electronic discovery experience and solid track record in legal technology consulting. We provide a level of service that very few providers can offer.
